Description
In the countryside of Koili, Paphos, two adjoining fields together make up 2,603 m² of agricultural land. The village centre is a short drive away, as is the neighbouring village of Tsada. The land around them is a mix of farmland and undeveloped parcels, keeping the setting rural. The land has no direct road access.

The agricultural zoning makes it suitable for farming or planting. Because the two parcels sit side by side, they can be worked as one plot. These are two neighbouring fields of agricultural land in Koili, together covering 2,603 m².
