Description
Outside Kelokedara village in the Paphos countryside, this agricultural field of 8,176 m² lies a short distance from the Xeropotamos River, surrounded by other farmland and undeveloped parcels. The villages of Agia Marina Kelokedaron and Stavrokonnou are a short drive away.

The land has a regular shape and a smooth, gentle slope, and it can be used for farming or planting. Access is by a right of way across neighbouring parcels, so there is no direct road access. Water, electricity and telecommunications could potentially be connected. This is a sizeable, well-shaped piece of agricultural land in open countryside.
